The Humanities Academy offers an interdisciplinary curriculum of social studies, literature, math, foreign language and health. As a smaller learning environment it also provides the opportunity to build relationships among students, teachers, parents and the community. The Humanities' focus is on the great ideas that have shaped and created contemporary civilization, exploring works from different eras and cultures. This program is rigorous, but not just for college-bound students. It is designed for self-directed students who are serious about their education. In addition to traditional classroom instruction, the schedule is flexible and allows for project-based learning and group activities.

Student Questions:

1. How did you hear about the Humanities Academy?

2. Please write three or four sentences explaining why you are interested in the Humanities Academy.
